

A Gold Nugget Gift from Our Friend Tiber

When Tiber met with Travis in our series, Meeting Tiber, he gave his student Travis this formula that will work pretty well to access the Creative Force.

He called it the Four Crowns of Creative Endeavors. You can try to remember these four terms that he also called the IWEB.

"The first Crown is Imagination, for without having it, you would never know when or how to start the creative process.

"The second Crown is Willpower, which, when used wisely, sends you into the direction you need to go to accomplish or obtain something.

The third Crown is Effort, perhaps the hardest of the four crowns. It would help if you used Effort as hard and prolonged as necessary to cause your creations to manifest themselves.

And the fourth and final Crown is Belief. The soul often wants to conjure up a creation but aborts the Effort before it is ready to manifest because they lack the impetus to keep it going or do not believe in it enough. Without Belief in what you are trying to accomplish, it is pretty hard to reach your goals."
